

We're delighted to invite you and your partner to an exclusive launch and fundraiser for Project PanGaia, our new rewilding initiative in the Ngaanyatjarra lands of central Western Australia.

you're invited

This event is being generously hosted in the Yarra Valley by renowned master potter and sculptor, Ted Secombe, and his wife Ann Flockhart. Ted has designed a 'Desert and Stars' series of works with 100% of the sale going to support PanGaia's pilot with 30% of any purchase from the gallery also donated.

Join For the Love of Wildlife (FLOW) Directors and guests for drinks, canapes and an overview of this groundbreaking project, which is designed to address our biodiversity crisis and position Australia as a global rewilding capital.

Register your interest in attending: info@forthe love of wildlife.com.au

Sunday February 16, 2025 from 4.00 to 6:00 PM (AEDT)

Venue: Ted Secombe's Studio
240 Bleases Lane, Dixons Creek (Yarra Valley)

For the love of WILDLIFE

FLOW is an Australian charity recognised for our success in Australia's ban on lion trophies and body parts, a global first followed by other countries including the US, and closing the domestic trade in elephant ivory and rhino horn.

Through Project PanGaia, we are pioneering new approaches to restoring the fragile ecologies that support our unique wildlife and remote communities across the nation.
